9 Real-life journeys

Rajesh Yabaji

Co-founder & CEO, BlackBuck (trucking platform)

An IIT Kharagpur graduate, Rajesh Yabaji saw the inefficiencies of India's fragmented trucking industry up close while running supply chain at ITC. In 2015 he founded BlackBuck, which connected truck owners and shippers on a digital platform, cutting empty-truck runs (dead mileage) and lowering transport costs. Today it is one of India's largest trucking platforms and became a unicorn in 2021. His story shows how deep understanding of transport, fleets and routes can transform an entire industry.

Sunita Joshi

Founder, Logismith (last-mile delivery / 3PL)

In a logistics sector long seen as male-dominated, Sunita Joshi founded Logismith in Chandigarh in 2016, building the business amid difficult family circumstances to secure her daughter's future. Today her company is a third-party logistics (3PL) partner for Amazon India and Blue Dart, delivering 2,000–3,000 packages a day across about 30 rural and upcountry pin codes and employing over 120 delivery executives. Her journey shows that women too can lead successfully in transport and delivery management.
